Rule amendments are needed to better align the rules with governing statutes, expand eligibility for vocational assistance, ensure certain benefit amounts are appropriate, and enhance clarity.

DOCUMENTS RELIED UPON, AND WHERE THEY ARE AVAILABLE

Rulemaking advisory committee records, and written advice. These documents are available for public inspection upon request to the Workers' Compensation Division, 350 Winter Street NE, Salem, Oregon 97301-3879. Please contact Daneka Karma, policy manager, 503-509-6785, WCD.Policy@dcbs.oregon.gov.

STATEMENT IDENTIFYING HOW ADOPTION OF RULE(S) WILL AFFECT RACIAL EQUITY IN THIS STATE

The Workers' Compensation Division does not collect data about race or ethnicity related to workplace injuries and illness in Oregon, but the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics publishes lists of occupations and numbers of Americans employed broken down by race. Black/African Americans and Hispanic/Latino workers are represented in some of the more dangerous occupations in higher numbers than their respective shares of the U.S. workforce. To the extent Oregon workers in these racial groups suffer more on-the-job injuries and illnesses, increased or decreased workers' compensation benefits may impact these racial groups more than others.

The revisions to OAR 436-120-0145 and 0175, along with the addition of proposed new OAR 436-120-0511, expands eligibility for vocational assistance to include workers who are not authorized to work in the United States. These revisions may have greater positive impact on Hispanic or Latino workers. Estimates by the United States Department of Homeland Security, Pew Research Center, and the Migration Policy Institute indicate that Mexico is the most common country of origin for unauthorized immigrants in the United States and Oregon.

FISCAL AND ECONOMIC IMPACT:

The agency projects the proposed rule amendments, if adopted, will not affect the agency's cost to carry out its responsibilities under ORS chapter 656 and OAR chapter 436. Possible impacts on stakeholders are included under "Statement of cost of compliance" below.

COST OF COMPLIANCE:

- (1) Identify any state agencies, units of local government, and members of the public likely to be economically affected by the rule(s). (2) Effect on Small Businesses: (a) Estimate the number and type of small businesses subject to the rule(s); (b) Describe the expected reporting, recordkeeping and administrative activities and cost required to comply with the rule(s); (c) Estimate the cost of professional services, equipment supplies, labor and increased administration required to comply with the rule(s).
- 1. Impact on state agencies, units of local government and the public (ORS 183.335(2)(b)(E)):
- a. The agency estimates that proposed rule changes will not increase or decrease costs to state agencies for compliance with the rules.
- b. The agency estimates that proposed rule changes will not increase or decrease costs to units of local government for compliance with the rules, with the exception of self-insured cities and counties, which are addressed under part c. helow
- c. The agency estimates that proposed rule changes will increase costs to the public for compliance with the rules.
- The proposed changes to OAR 436-120-0145, 0175, 0177, and proposed new rule OAR 436-120-0511 will increase costs to the public. Insurers and self-insured employers will incur increased costs because eligibility for vocational assistance would be expanded to include workers not authorized to work in the United States. It is estimated there will be an increase in costs for:
- Vocational assistance ($226,000 $679,000 annually)
- Temporary disability paid during a training plan ($267,000 $800,000 annually)

Notes on estimated costs:

- The estimates are based on a range of 10 to 30 workers per year who were found ineligible for vocational assistance due to not being authorized to work in the United States.
- Vocational assistance costs were based on the average vocational assistance costs for workers on training plans from 2020-2022, approximately $22,618 per worker.
- Temporary disability was based on two-thirds of the state average weekly wage effective on July 1, 2023 ($1,295.86) and the average number of weeks that temporary disability was paid for workers on training plans in 2022 (about 31 weeks).
- Under the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 (IRCA), it is unlawful to recruit, hire, employ, or refer for employment a person known to be not authorized to work in the United States. Some vocational training benefits, such as job placement services and on-the-job training may conflict with the IRCA. Under these proposed rule changes, workers who are not authorized to work in the United States may only receive limited training, which would exclude on-the-job training and job placement services. The above estimates are based on the assumption that all workers will have access to all vocational benefits. Thus, the actual additional costs to provide vocational assistance to workers who are not authorized to work in the United States may be lower than these estimates.

Source: Information Technology and Research Section, Department of Consumer and Business Services

- Insurers and self-insured employers may incur some costs to revise letters and associated computer programs and templates to implement the revisions to mandatory notice language in OAR 436-060-0018, 0020, 0030, 0095, 0105, 0135, 0137. However, the agency cannot estimate the exact amount of the costs to insurers to make these adjustments.
- The proposed changes to OAR 436-120-0720 expand the number of workers who are eligible for a living expense allowance during a vocational evaluation. As a result, insurers may be required to pay an allowance for more workers than under the current rule. However, the agency cannot estimate the number of workers who may be eligible for a living expense allowance.
- The maximum spending limits for overall vocational assistance established in OAR 436-120-0720, includes direct worker purchases, remains unchanged. However, the proposed changes to OAR 436-120-0720 increase the maximum amount an insurer could pay for certain direct worker purchases (second residence allowance, vehicle rental or lease, and other purchases). Higher amounts could be paid for these direct worker purchases than allowed under the current rule. This could potentially increase the costs of vocational assistance for insurers. The agency does not have data available to estimate how often insurers will be required to pay higher amounts for these direct worker purchases.
- $2. \, Cost \, of \, compliance \, effect \, on \, small \, business \, (ORS \, 183.336);$
- a. Estimate the number of small businesses and types of business and industries with small businesses subject to the rule:

The businesses affected by the proposed rule amendments are primarily insurers and self-insured employers. However, insurers and self-insured employers tend to be large employers and not small businesses as defined in ORS 183.310. Vocational assistance providers that provide vocational assistance are subject to proposed rule changes. Approximately 33 registered vocational providers assist workers in returning to work, and it is estimated that more than 80 percent of these providers are small businesses. Similarly, businesses that provide training to workers may be affected; and these businesses vary in size and may include small businesses.

b. Projected reporting, recordkeeping and other administrative activities required for compliance, including costs of professional services:

The proposed rules expand the number of workers who may be eligible for vocational assistance, and make changes to rule requirements that vocational assistance providers will need to apply as necessary to individual cases. Vocational assistance providers and training facilities may experience increased reporting and administrative activities for the additional workers that maybecome eligible under the proposed rules. However, insurers will pay these businesses for their services.

c. Equipment, supplies, labor and increased administration required for compliance:

The proposed rules expand the number of workers who may be eligible for vocational assistance, and make changes to rule requirements that vocational counselors will need to apply as necessary to individual cases. Vocational assistance providers and training facilities may use additional equipment, supplies, labor, and provide increased administration required for compliance. However, insurers will pay these businesses for their services.

DESCRIBE HOW SMALL BUSINESSES WERE INVOLVED IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF THESE RULE(S):

The agency sent rule advisory committee invitations to more than 4,500 stakeholders, including representatives of small businesses.

Establishing the Adjusted Weekly Wage ¶

- (1) General provisions.¶
- (a) To determine a suitable wage the insurer must first establish the adjusted weekly wage as described in this rule.¶
- (b) The insurer must calculate the adjusted weekly wage whenever determining or redetermining a worker's eligibility for vocational assistance.¶
- (c) All figures used in determining a weekly wage by this method must be supported by verifiable documentation such as the worker's state or federal tax returns, payroll records, or reports of earnings or unemployment insurance payments from the Oregon Employment Department.¶
- (d) If the insurer is unable to obtain complete information to calculate the weekly wage under section (3) of this rule, but the worker does provide verifiable documentation to establish wages at the time of injury, the insurer must make a reasonable calculation of the worker's weekly wage based on the verifiable documentation available.¶
- (2) Definitions.¶

For the purposes of this rule, the following definitions apply:

- (a) "Adjusted weekly wage" is the wage currently paid as calculated under this rule.¶
- (b) "Cost-of-living adjustments" or "collective bargaining adjustments" are increases or decreases in the wages of all workers performing the same or similar jobs for a specific employer. These adjustments are not variations in wages based on skills, merit, seniority, length of employment, or number of hours worked.¶
- (c) "Earned income" means gross wages, salary, tips, commissions, incentive pay, bonuses, and the reasonable value of other consideration (such as housing, utilities, and food) received from all employers for services performed from all jobs held at the time of injury or aggravation. Earned income also means gross earnings from self-employment after deductions of business expenses excluding depreciation. Earned income does not include fringe benefits such as medical, life, or disability insurance, employer contributions to pension plans, or reimbursement of the worker's employment expenses such as mileage or equipment rental.¶
- (d) "Job at aggravation" means the job or jobs the worker held on the date of the aggravation claim or, for a worker not employed at the time of aggravation, the last job or concurrent jobs held before the aggravation. The job does not need to be subject employment. Volunteer work is not a job for purposes of this subsection unless the worker is a subject worker under ORS 656.031 or 656.039, and the worker originally sustained the compensable injury at the volunteer job.¶
- (e) "Job at injury" is the job on which the worker originally sustained the compensable injury. For an occupational disease, the job at injury is the job the worker held at the time there is medical verification that the worker is unable to work because of the disability caused by the occupational disease. Volunteer work is not a job for purposes of this subsection: unless the worker is a subject worker under ORS 656.031 or 656.039, and the worker originally sustained the compensable injury at the volunteer job¶
- (f) "Permanent employment" is a job with no projected end date or a job that had no projected end date at the time of hire. Permanent employment may be year-round or seasonal.¶
- (g) "Permanent, year-round employment" is permanent employment in which the worker worked or was scheduled or projected to work in 48 or more calendar weeks a year. Paid leave is counted as work time. Permanent year-round employment includes trial service. It does not include employment with an annual salary set by contract or self-employment.¶
- (h) "Temporary disability" means wage loss replacement for the job at injury.¶
- (i) "Time of injury" means, in the case of an injury, the date of injury or, in the case of an occupational disease, the time there is medical verification that the worker is unable to work because of the disability caused by the occupational disease.¶
- (j) "Trial service" is employment designed to lead automatically to permanent, year-round employment subject only to the employee's satisfactory performance during the trial service period.¶
- (3) Determining weekly wage. ¶

The insurer must determine the nature of the job at injury and any other paid jobs held at the time of injury, or the job or jobs at aggravation, and this must include contacting the employer at injury to verify the worker's employment status.¶

- (a) When the job at injury or any other paid jobs held at the time of injury, or the job at aggravation was seasonal or temporary, calculate the worker's weekly wage as follows, then convert to the adjusted weekly wage as described in section (4) of this rule:¶
- (A) When the worker's regular employment is the job at injury and the worker did not hold more than one job at the time of injury, and did not receive unemployment insurance benefits during the 52 weeks before the injury, use the same wage upon which temporary disability was based.¶
- (B) When the worker's regular employment is the job at aggravation and the worker did not hold more than one job at the time of aggravation, and did not receive unemployment insurance benefits during the 52 weeks before the aggravation, use the same methods used to calculate temporary disability as described under OAR 436-060-0025 that was in effect on the date of injury.¶
- (C) When the worker held more than one job at the time of injury or aggravation, and did not receive unemployment insurance payments during the 52 weeks before the date of the injury or aggravation, divide the worker's earned income by the number of weeks the worker worked in those jobs during the 52 weeks before the date of injury or aggravation.¶
- (D) When the worker held one or more jobs at the time of injury or aggravation, and received unemployment insurance payments during the 52 weeks before the date of the injury or aggravation, combine the earned income with the unemployment insurance payments and divide the total by the number of weeks the worker worked in those jobs and received unemployment insurance payments during the 52 weeks before the date of the injury or aggravation.¶
- (b) When subsection (3)(a) of this rule does not apply, calculate the worker's weekly wage as follows, then convert to the adjusted weekly wage as described in section (4) of this rule:¶
- (A) When the worker's regular employment is the job at injury and the worker did not hold more than one job at the time of injury, use the same wage upon which temporary disability was based.¶
- (B) When the worker's regular employment is the job at injury and the worker held more than one job at the time of injury, use the same methods used to calculate temporary disability as described under OAR 436-060-0025 that was in effect on the date of injury. The job does not need to be subject employment. Volunteer work is not a job for purposes of this paragraph.¶
- (C) When the worker's regular employment is the job at aggravation, use the same methods used to calculate temporary disability as described under OAR 436-060-0025 that was in effect on the date of injury.¶
 (c) When a volunteer job is the job at injury or job at aggravation, the weekly wage for the volunteer job is the assumed wage used to determine the employer's premium. ¶
- (4) Adjusted weekly wage. ¶
- After arriving at the worker's weekly wage under section (3) of this rule, establish the adjusted weekly wage by determining the percentage increase or decrease from the date of injury or aggravation, or last day worked before aggravation, to the date of calculation, as follows:¶
- (a) Contact the employer at injury regarding any cost-of-living or collective bargaining adjustments for workers performing the same job. Adjust the total of all of the weekly wages from section (3) of this rule by any percentage increase or decrease;¶
- (b) If the employer at injury is no longer in business and the worker's job was covered by a union contract, contact the applicable union for any cost-of-living or collective bargaining adjustments. Adjust the total of all of the weekly wages from section (3) of this rule by the percentage increase or decrease;¶
- (c) If the employer at injury is no longer in business or does not currently employ workers in the same job category, adjust the total of all of the weekly wages from section (3) of this rule by the appropriate factor from the cost-of-living matrix in Bulletin 124; or \P
- (d) If the worker's regular employment was the employment the worker held at the time of aggravation, adjust the total of all of the weekly wages from section (3) of this rule by the appropriate factor from the cost-of-living matrix in Bulletin 124.
