CORRECTED BULLETIN NO. 386 Jan. 31, 2022

TO: Workers' compensation insurers and self-insured employers

SUBJECT: Retroactive Program benefits effective Oct. 1, 2021

This bulletin provides corrected minimum and maximum permanent total disability (PTD) benefit amounts for workers injured before Jan. 1, 2018. Workers injured before Jan. 1, 2018 are now eligible for the same minimum and maximum PTD benefit amounts as workers injured on or after Jan. 1, 2018, but before July 1, 2020. You can read the Industry Notice dated Jan. 3, 2022 for information about why the minimum and maximum PTD benefit amounts were adjusted. Additionally, this corrected bulletin also strikes the "in effect at the time of the injury" language from Section 1(a) under "Computing Permanent Total Disability (PTD) Benefits," and instead refers to the July 1, 2020 state average weekly wage (SAWW). This is the correct figure, which has been, and is currently, in use by the division's PTD calculator. This corrected Bulletin 386 replaces corrected Bulletin 386 dated Jan. 3, 2022, in its entirety.

This bulletin notifies insurers and self-insured employers of:

1. The annual increase in Retroactive Program benefits, and
2. The methods used to calculate these benefits and determine the amount of Retroactive Program reimbursement.

The Retroactive Program benefit, established by ORS 656.506(7) and administered under OAR chapter 436 division 075, is an additional amount paid to eligible workers or their beneficiaries when benefit levels are lower than what is currently being paid for like injuries. Program recipients are primarily workers previously determined to have a permanent total disability and beneficiaries of workers who suffered fatal injuries.

COMPUTING PERMANENT TOTAL DISABILITY (PTD) BENEFITS

Workers injured before July 1, 2020 are eligible for retroactive benefit increases effective Oct. 1, 2021, as follows:

- Worker's Current Benefit
- 1(a) Determine weekly benefits by first calculating 66.67 percent of the worker's weekly wage at the time of injury, and then multiplying this amount by the conversion factor for the year of injury (see "Yearly Conversion Factors" on page 5). If the weekly benefit calculates to less than $360.83 (33 percent of the July 1, 2020 SAWW), increase the benefit to $360.83.
 - (b) Compare 1(a) to $1,454.24 (133 percent of the July 1, 2020 SAWW). The lesser figure is the worker's weekly PTD rate.

- (c) For workers with dates of injury before Oct. 23, 1999, add $5 for each additional beneficiary, not to exceed five (5) beneficiaries. Add this figure to 1(b).
- (d) Multiply 1(b), or 1(c) if applicable, by 4.35 to determine the monthly PTD benefit.

- Retroactive Reimbursement
- 2(a) Determine the statutory monthly PTD benefit due in accordance with ORS 656.206 based on the date of injury.
 - (b) The difference between 1(d) and 2(a) is the retroactive benefit, reimbursable from the Retroactive Program.

To determine statutory and Retroactive Program benefits due for a partial month, divide the monthly benefit by the ACTUAL NUMBER OF DAYS in the month and then multiply by the number of days included in the partial month.

COMPUTING FATAL BENEFITS

Fatal benefits for injuries occurring before July 1, 2020, are increased to the following fatal benefit levels:

- The monthly benefit for a surviving spouse or domestic partner is $3,171.05 (4.35 times 66 and 2/3 percent of the July 1, 2020 SAWW, $1,093.41).
- The monthly benefit to each child of a deceased worker who is under 19 years of age or who is 19 to 26 years of age and completing secondary education, obtaining a general educational development certificate (GED), or attending a program of higher education is $1,189.08 (4.35 times 25 percent of the July 1, 2020 SAWW, $1,093.41).
- While attending higher education, the monthly benefit of a child or dependent of the deceased worker that has no surviving parent is $3,171.05 (4.35 times 66 and 2/3 percent of the July 1, 2020 SAWW, $1,093.41).
- In no event shall the total monthly benefits paid to all surviving children exceed $6,341.62 (4.35 times 133 and 1/3 percent of the July 1, 2020 SAWW, $1,093.41). If the total exceeds the maximum, the benefits must be reduced proportionately.

Compute retroactive benefits in the following manner:

1. For fatal claims occurring from injuries before July 1, 2020:
 - (a) Determine the statutory benefit due in accordance with ORS 656.204 based on the date of injury, as modified by the current family status.
 - (b) The difference between 1(a) and the benefit levels under the bulleted list in the section above is reimbursable from the Retroactive Program.

To determine statutory and Retroactive Program benefits due for a partial month, divide the monthly benefit by the ACTUAL NUMBER OF DAYS in the month and then multiply by the number of days included in the partial month.

Do not reduce benefits, even if computations under this bulletin indicate benefit levels less than what was previously due.

2. Determine remarriage benefits, regardless of the date of injury, as follows:
 - (a) Determine the remarriage allowance by multiplying the spouse's current monthly benefit (which includes Retroactive Program benefit increases) by 36.
 - (b) Determine the surviving spouse's statutory remarriage allowance in accordance with ORS 656.204 based on the date of injury.
 - (c) The difference between 2(a) and 2(b) is reimbursable from the Retroactive Program.
3. Determine burial benefits as follows:
 - (a) Determine the statutory benefit due in accordance with ORS 656.204 based on the date of injury.
 - (b) The difference between 3(a) and the July 1, 2020 statutory level of $21,868.20 (20 times the July 1, 2020 SAWW, $1,093.41) is reimbursable from the Retroactive Program.

COMPUTING TEMPORARY TOTAL DISABILITY (TTD) BENEFITS

On or after Oct. 1, 2021, TTD benefits paid to all workers injured before July 1, 1973, are increased. TTD benefits paid to workers injured on or after July 1, 1973, but before April 1, 1974, whose statutory TTD rate is less than $874.73 (80 percent of the July 1, 2020 SAWW, $1,093.41), are also increased.

Workers injured on or after April 1, 1974, are not entitled to Retroactive Program increases to their TTD benefits (see Bulletin No. 111 (Rev.), dated May 21, 2021).

Effective Oct. 1, 2021, TTD benefit increases, reimbursable from the Retroactive Program, are paid at 80 percent of the July 1, 2020 SAWW, in the following manner:

- | | |
|--------------------------------|---|
| Worker's
Current
Benefit | <ol style="list-style-type: none">1(a) Determine weekly benefits by first calculating 66.67 percent of the worker's weekly wage at the time of injury, and then multiplying this amount by the conversion factor for the year of injury (see "Yearly Conversion Factors" on Page 5). If the weekly benefit calculates to less than $50, the benefit is increased to 90 percent of the weekly wage at the time of injury multiplied by the conversion factor or $50, whichever is less.(b) Compare 1(a) to $874.73 (80 percent of the July 1, 2020 SAWW). The lesser figure is the worker's weekly TTD rate. |
|--------------------------------|---|

- Retroactive Reimbursement
- 2(a) Determine the statutory TTD benefits due in accordance with ORS 656.210 based on the date of injury, taking into account the current marital and dependency status. Divide the monthly benefit by 4.35 to determine the weekly TTD benefit.
 - (b) The difference between 1(b) and 2(a) is the retroactive benefit, reimbursable from the Retroactive Program.

Do not reduce worker benefits, even if computations under this bulletin indicate benefit levels less than currently paid.
